This year, the event will support Running Blind - a 501(c)3 founded by race director Hal Wolfe supporting people with visual impairments (see website at www.runningblind.org). We will also be fundraising again this year on behalf of the Prostate Cancer Foundation. (See info at www.pcf.org.)

The Gallup Gallop has a new fall date. This was done primarily due to construction in Gallup Park. The construction will be at the East end of the parking area and will create an expanded playground area. While it is going on, the paths in that area will not be passable. The park is also much busier than it used to be with canoe livery customers, and the park administration has made it clear that we must not interfere with that business. This is not a pleasing aspect of the park's management, but it is reality. Moving to a fall date as we have should allow us to continue without interfering with livery customers and straining the park management and as we all know fall is generally a great time of year to run, so we expect this date to stick into the future.

The Gallup Gallop Supports Running Blind, a 501(c)3 that was founded by race director Hal Wolfe. This group's primary mission is to support people with visual impairments participate in a more active lifestyle by promoting guide supported running and walking. Finding guides for blind runners is a primary activity RB engages in. They have also sponsored a number of "Adventure Camps" for visually impaired youth to participate in outdoor activities and build confidence.
